

Bobcats of the Month -October

Ashly Denney

Ashly is focused, follows directions, asks questions when needed and is courteous to her teachers and peers. I am enjoying getting to know her as a science student this year.

Mrs. Svenson

Ashton Simants

Ashton was very helpful in PE and was very kind to another student who needed a partner and his help.

Mr. Rush

Delaynie Laible

Delaynie is a TA in the Kindergarten room and displays kindness to all. She is eager to jump in and help with whatever is necessary without even being asked.

Mrs. Ross

Parents it is that time of year when the conditions outside are changing all the time. We have windy, rainy, warm and frigid days. Please dress your children appropriately as the mornings have been especially cool. It is important to layer this time of year as the temperature can fluctuate and we do live in Nebraska so the weather is constantly changing. Please help students come to school prepared as we plan on being outside every day we can. Dressing appropriately minimizes your child's chance of getting sick. Our policy is we will be outside for recess if the outside temperature plus the wind chill is above 10 degrees.

One question that we are frequently asked by parents is, "How can I help my child with their homework?" This is a great question, and we appreciate parents wanting to help with their child's education. Homework is very important and things are different in schools today than they were when we, as parents and grandparents, attended school. Our math curriculum in the elementary is still fairly new and it allows students to use different methods to solve problems. It can be difficult for parents and some of these methods are completely "backwards" from how we are taught. So what can you do? Here are some tips that you can do as a parent to help with homework after school. First of all, establish a routine and structure. Consistency is extremely important! Coming up with a plan will help your child. It might be best to start with a snack to help your child can focus on the task at hand. Having a set place for your child to do their homework is important as well. A great place to work on homework is the kitchen table. This allows you to sit with your child and help him or her if necessary and keeping an eye on them. Here they have room to spread out to complete homework. Often times, students like to work in their room; however, it is best to have them work at the kitchen table so you can monitor what they are working on as students can have far too many distractions in their rooms (i.e. technology). Finally, check with your child and ask them if they have homework. If your child has a planner, you can look to see what they have written down for assignments for that day. These are some little things that you can do as a parent to make a BIG difference in your child's education!

Thanks,
Mr. Birkel

Dear Callaway Students, Staff, Parents, and Community Members,

As we move into November I want to take a moment to reflect on all that I am thankful for as the educational leader of Callaway Public Schools.

- I am thankful that I work with a staff of exceptional educators that go above and beyond to meet all the of the needs of all of our students.
- I am thankful for all we are able to provide for our students. This is a collaborative effort and we would not be able to do it without you.
- I am thankful for the increase in participation that we have seen from our community regarding education as a whole. The more we are able to partner and work together the better we will be able to meet the needs of all of our kids.
- To sum it up, I am grateful that we have a community that will come together to help support our students, staff, and school community as a whole.

We are working every day to help our kids show positive growth as students and people. My goals as an educator is to ensure that our students improve every day and that we meet their academic and social emotional needs. I would like to invite all of our community members to stop by and take a firsthand look at all of the amazing things that we have happening in Callaway Public Schools. We plan to schedule a few opportunities for question and answers sessions followed by classroom visits here in the next few weeks. We look forward to seeing you.

Sincerely,

Bryon Hanson
Superintendent
