

Bobcats of the Month - November

Angel Johnson

Angel is the kind of student who gives 100% with whatever you ask of her.

She is always willing to help her classmates so they can reach their full potential. Angel has also gone above and beyond in helping the cafeteria ladies during the lunch hour. She is a fantastic student, has a servant heart and pushes herself to be better each day!

Miss Popp

Eli Trotter

Eli works hard in the classroom. He participates in class and is always willing to answer questions. Eli is kind, respectful, and helpful to his classmates as well as to adults. He is a joy to have in class.

Mrs. Sallach

Colton Hicks

Colton comes to class everyday ready to work. He is the first to volunteer to help lift, carry, and paint the set. He is a huge help in Theater Arts class and sets a great example for his peers.

From the Principal's Desk

One question that we are frequently asked by parents is, "How can I help my child with their homework?" This is a great question, and we appreciate parents wanting to help with their child's education. Homework is very important and things are different in schools today than they were when we, as parents and grandparents, attended school. Our math curriculum in the elementary is still fairly new and it allows students to use different methods to solve problems. It can be difficult for parents and some of these methods are completely "backwards" from how we are taught. So what can you do? Here are some tips that you can do as a parent to help with homework after school. First of all, establish a routine and structure. Consistency is extremely important! Coming up with a plan will help your child. It might be best to start with a snack to help your child can focus on the task at hand. Having a set place for your child to do their homework is important as well. A great place to work on homework is the kitchen table. This allows you to sit with your child and help him or her if necessary and keeping an eye on them. Here they have room to spread out to complete homework. Oftentimes, students like to work in their room; however, it is best to have them work at the kitchen table so you can monitor what they are working on as students can have far too many distractions in their rooms (i.e. technology). Finally, check with your child and ask them if they have homework. If your child has a planner, you can look to see what they have written down for assignments for that day. These are some little things that you can do as a parent to make a BIG difference in your child's education!

If you have a child in grades 7-12 you can also check their grades on PowerSchool. In the beginning of the year packet, your username and password were sent home. You can either download the app or log on with a laptop or desktop computer. The link for PowerSchool can be found on the school's website. Please keep in mind that teachers grade assignments and enter them as quickly as possible when you are looking at grades. This is another way you can keep up with how your child is doing at school. If you have any questions or if you need any help please don't hesitate to call the school office.
